What are some basic references for native plants in the Chesapeake Bay watershed?

A new guide titled “Native Plants for Northern Virginia” showcases an attractive variety of plants native to our area through the Plant NoVA Natives Campaign. To view it online, visit the campaign’s website at www.plantnovanatives.org. This guide is available to be purchased at a table at this native plant sale.

The U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service published a good reference titled "Native Plants for Wildlife Habitat and Conservation Landscaping: Chesapeake Bay Watershed." To view this book online or download a PDF file of the book, visit the “Other resources (outside links)” page of the Plant NOVA Natives website at www.plantnovanatives.org/other-resources.

Douglas Tallamy, Professor of Entomology and Wildlife Ecology at the University of Delaware in Newark, has written "Bringing Nature Home: How You Can Sustain Wildlife with Native Plants." People rave about this terrific book. Where can I go to see native plant gardens in this area?

The U.S. Botanic Garden has a lovely “Regional Garden” in the “National Garden,” which features Mid-Atlantic native plants that highlight the beauty of the region’s flora. See www.usbg.gov/national-garden.

The U.S. National Arboretum has a wonderful native plant trail known as the “Fern Valley Native Plant Collection.” The collection is organized by habitat and geographic areas for plants of different regions of the eastern U.S. See www.usna.usda.gov/discover/gardens-collections/fern-valley.
